ART BUSINESSES

Fernhill Glass Studio
1450 Exchange Street
We will be demonstrating glass blowing from 11:00am to 8:00pm. Saturday. Please come warm yourselves while watching art happen.
Reminder: Blow your own ornament is a walk-in or schedule a time event. Or schedule an egg paperweight class. Gift certificates are available.

Imogen Gallery
240 11th Street
For November Imogen Gallery will be presenting Angular Animalia, an exhibition of prints and sculpture by Tara Murino Brault. As an artist and educator, Murino-Brault has focused her attention on the printmaking processes where she feels at home in describing her interest in whimsical creatures, often creating her own mythology and fantastical tales. Included in the exhibition will be intaglio and screen prints as well as carved sculptural work that also incorporates elements of intaglio. Her printmaking process provides a narrative and illustrative approach with velvety layers and rich tonality. Angular Animalia will be on exhibit November 10th – December 5th.

Festival Artists at AMF
1271 Commercial Street
The Astoria Music Festival office is the home of The Festival Artists Coop - a group of ten local artists who present work in a variety of media. They include watercolor artist Marga Stanley, watercolor and mixed media artist Jeannette Davis, jewelry artist Nancy Karcand, photographers Tracy Hale and Carol Smith, pen and ink artist Doug Seamen, print artists Normandie Hand, Jill Merril and Elizabeth Bonn Zimmerman, acrylic artists Vicki Baker and Thron Riggs, and Art and Psyche artist Yvonne Edwards. Many of the artists offer greeting cards of their original work as well as holiday greeting cards.

Old Town Framing
1287 Commercial Street
Old Town Framing welcomes the “Nutcracker” art show. This is a silent auction conducted over a 3 week period. All art is donated by local artists and traditionally inspired by the Little Ballet Theatre’s production of The Nutcracker ballet, in its 38th year of production in Astoria. Your participation allows youth to dance and continue the tradition of beautiful music and dancing in our area. The production of The Nutcracker will be Dec. 1st and 2nd. Please join us for this unique art show.

RiverSea Gallery
1160 Commercial Street
RiverSea Gallery begins month-long 15th anniversary celebration with three events for Artwalk:
Thomas Benenati exhibits new works in pastel on paper in a show titled, “From a Bare Hand.” The Long Beach artist is noted for his self-taught and distinctly original approach to pastel. His renderings of landscape and still life dissolve recognizable images into expressionist energy.
Astoria artists Christi Payne and Sheila Brown are the co-exhibitors in, “Two Old Friends and One Red Tricycle.” Local scenes are portrayed in Payne’s tiny graphite drawings and Brown’s relief prints.
Nehalem Musician, Brian Johnson will perform guitar music ranging from flamenco to jazz. Meet the artists and enjoy wine and small bites.

Astoria Fine Art Gallery
160 10th St
Gallery Director Stephen Bergstrom
Introducing the Art of Dave McMacken.
Dave is a well-known illustrator now showing his past, and current Marine Art Paintings and Illustrations at Astoria Fine Art Gallery. He is currently working on his new series of Marine and North Coast Art which will be on exhibition November 10th. Dave has a full studio of works and clients ranging from the known to the better known celebs in our time, don't want to miss this exciting artist and his lovely wife Judith.
Dave took on a number of freelance assignments for clients such as Chris Whorf at Bizarre (Frank Zappa, Bootsy Collins) and Roland Young at A&M Records (Tom Scott, Louis Armstrong, The Carpenters, Horizon Jazz). Non-music clients have included the JWT, Y&R and Arnold advertising agencies; Apple Computer, and Microsoft. His film work includes painting backgrounds for animated film such as Puff The Magic Dragon.
