The glass creations of Louis Andrew Schaffer will be featured this October. His pieces are beautifully graceful and dramatic. Schaffer lived in Seattle for six years working as an apprentice under some of the top names in the glass industry before moving to Portland, Oregon. "I was drawn to off hand glass blowing after seeing a demonstration. The sheer difficulty of creating these beautiful colorful masterpieces from a molten medium truly intrigued me." angidwildtgallery.com

Art Totale - 1

Presenting the delightfully haunted doll assemblage art creations of Shannon Headrick, Brianna Horton's fantastic jewelry and acrylic paintings, Cass Mullin's lovely resin window art, also more of resident artist, Lisa Ackerman's work. Lorenzo Carlson will play live music. If unable to view on this day, please call (503) 395-1221 to set up an appointment to privately view the work.

AVA Center for the Arts - 16

1000 Duane Street

Observations and the balancing act of 2020, Morrison Pierce's mixed media paintings reflect the civil unrest of the working class in America. Painting for the last 25 years, Pierce's work is contemporary, relevant and introspective and has been shown in galleries, museums, and abandoned buildings throughout the US. He continues to strive to find and make connections between our rural art community and the world-wide contemporary art scene. AVA is a 501(c)3 non-profit that enhances, strengthens and promotes the arts.

Brumfield Gallery - 6

1033 Marine Drive

"Hanky Panky" is a major exhibition of new works by Dough Whitfield. Whitfield is fascinated with the concept of individual perception of reality. In his imagery, he creates endearing protagonists that fall outside the norms of accepted beauty. The gallery is also premiering the recent Steindruck München Series of lithographic prints created by Michael Barnes. This series was begun during a residency in Germany in 2018 and developed over the following two years.

Cambium Gallery - 15

1030 Duane Street

"In Between" by photographer Delilah Anaya gives insight into liminality and exemplifies how our virtues don't always align with the rule of law. It is also rooted in location, the border and the Rio Grande. This is one story out of more than 8 million children in the United States with the same legal circumstances, Cesar and his four siblings are US citizens, both of his parents are "undocumented". Join us from 3-8 pm during Art Walk.

Forsythea - 9

1124 Commercial Street

Forsythea is gearing up for Fall and the ensuing holidays with "one of a kind" pottery pieces by Sonja Korpela. Sonjas' bowls and vessels elevate meal time to an art form! Sonja spent years as a professional cake decorator before taking a pottery class with her daughter in law. Working in the round was already familiar to her. We love how she continues to push her own limits in terms of shape and applied designs. Open till 6:30pm for Art Walk.

Imogen - 8

240 - 11th Street

Back by popular demand are the gorgeous charcoal drawings of bees by April Coppini with a new series of elegant drawings. This time sharing the stage with ceramic artist Molly Schulps. Coppini and Schulps both share a common passion for environmental issues, specifically relating to wildlife preservation. As Coppini utilizes paper for her support of dramatic imagery, Schulps turns to her wheel thrown and hand built clay pieces as backbone to her love of drawing and playful use of color.

Lagom - 14

1350 Exchange Street

Kim Lakin's body of collage work entitled Connections displays some of the same tenets as Japanese garden design: Simplicity or elimination of clutter, clarity through omission or exclusion of the non-essential, asymmetry or irregularity, the understated, articulate brevity, minimal, the feeling of spontaneity or accident, suggestion rather than revelation. Melissa Haeckel MA, LMT of Lagom will offer information and demonstration on healing art modalities through her music. Please join us from 5-8pm for art, refreshments and singing bowls.

Oregon Gypsy Gallery - 12

1426 Commercial Street

We recently opened this gallery as a way to connect more personally with the community. We are a husband and wife team working with a variety of mediums including metal, ceramics, leather and wood.

Oscar d'Masi Studio and Gallery - 11

1145 Commercial Street

We are featuring the glorious wildlife watercolors of local artist and native son, Karl Hauer. Stop by to say hi and enjoy these wonderful works! Karl shares his unique view of many aquatic creatures including Sea Turtles, Jelly Fish, Fish and so much more! We also have new works from Oscar de' Masi to share with you! As always, we thank you for your support, it means so much!

Paul Polson Studio Gallery - 2

100 - 10th Street

Paul Polson Studio Gallery – Paul will show his oil paintings – Painted 40 years ago to the present. He will also continue showing the oil paintings of John Willis, a local painter of Astoria cityscapes.

RiverSea Gallery - 10

1160 Commercial Street

Sea, Sky, Sand is a collection of sky and waterscapes in oil on canvas by J Scott Wilson of Manzanita. These paintings are a contemplative response to the ever changing light and drama at that magical point where the land greets the infinite expanse of sea and sky. Plus The Day of the Dead: The Virus, a group show curated by local metalsmith and sculptor Tabor Porter, who has gathered an intriguing variety of work by a dozen artist friends.

The Secret Gallery - 4

160 - 10th Street

The Secret Gallery's October 2020 show, titled "Sins of the Father" includes works by contemporary artists alongside work by their fathers. The show includes works by: Ian, Emily, Caitlin, and Maria McVarish; Thomas and Rueben Rude; Richard and Sterling Gorsuch; Price and Brandon Policky; and Michael and Elena Orwick. Special appearance by legendary Scottish Fiddler Gabe McVarish.

Vaulted Gallery - 13

1389 Duane Street

This month we feature the work of resident artist, Jen Crowe. A multidisciplinary artist, Jen works in oils, natural fibers and precious metals. This month she debuts a collection of abstract oil & cold wax paintings including two large format pieces. Jen will be hosting the art walk and also showing a time lapse video of the creation of one of her large pieces.

West Coast Artisans Gallery - 5

160 - 10th Street

Be sure to check out the wire sculptures of Ryan Everson and new pen and ink drawings by Chris Bryant during October's Art Walk. As usual, no food or drink, and masks will be required.
